INTRODUCTION

The Rising Sun is set in the country with easy access from A.38 mid-way between Plymouth and Exeter just outside of Ashburton. It is a traditional pub with oak beams; log fires and a good size garden to enjoy.

You can choose a menu to suit your tastes and budget. The suggested menus are only a guide and can be adapted to your own requirements. Also included are some drink package ideas.

For parties wanting sole use of The Rising Sun a hire charge will be required depending on the number of people attending, seasonal reflections, i.e. bank holidays and peak times.

The premises can cater for up to one hundred and ten people at a sit down meal and one hundred and twenty for a buffet, there is also the option of using the garden facilities and having a barbecue (weather permitting).

Should guest accommodation be required The Rising Sun has five rooms; two doubles, one twin, one family room which sleeps two adults and three children and one room with a double and single bed. They all have en suite facilities and the price includes breakfast, details of which can be found on our website.

The Rising Sun is happy for the bride and groom to enjoy one night's accommodation with breakfast, free of charge, should they wish within their wedding package.

Paul and Louise would be only too pleased to discuss your requirements and it is advised to make an appointment with them so that your exact requirements can be discussed.
